It's Payback Time for Procurement

For the first time in DAS Housing Authority history, the program is receiving a $72,000 dividend from one of the insurance companies that covers them. The non-profit Housing Authority Insurance Group recognized that all of its participating state authorities have been members for a certain number of years, which qualifies the group for the dividend.

For two decades, the Department of Administrative Services, Master Insurance Program has provided housing authorities across Connecticut the opportunity to obtain required insurance coverage's through a sole source.

Because housing authorities have similar assets and risks, when grouped together, they have the strength of a much larger entity. As a single provider, DAS can offer higher limits of liability coverage at lower premium rates. All costs incurred by each housing authority directly effects its tenants, therefore, keeping insurance costs to a minimum assists in the reduction of rental fees by tenants.

"The money will help subsidize their budgets," said DAS' Aimee Gagnon, the Program Administrator. "The individual housing authorities are on extremely tight budgets. Every little bit helps and I imagine there will be a direct effect in savings for the residents of these housing authorities," she said. Some of the programs larger customers include Hartford, Norwich and Stamford Housing Authorities.
